WELCOME TO THE LAND’S END OF OUR STAFF

JOSÉE’S LAND’S END: SUNRISE AT CAP-BON-AMI

Visitor Facilities Attendant
As often as possible, I like to get up really early to go to Cap-Bon-Ami. The first hours of the morning are an exceptional time to admire the beauty of the scenery and the serenity of this place; it’s a fine spot for meditation, contemplation and sometimes, for astonishing observations, like the morning I watched a coyote loping along the beach. In this grandiose setting, I feel I’m truly at land’s end!

BENOÎT’S LAND’S END: THE SONG OF THE SEA!

Coordinator, Fire Fighting and Visitor Safety
I love listening to the percussion of the waves as they rustle and chuckle over the pebbles on our beaches, creating an irregular whisper with a sounding board weighing several tonnes! Once sacred places, these beaches are stages where the forces of nature play, and leave me feeling deeply humble.

CLÉO’S LAND’S END: A GLIMPSE INTO THE INFINITE...

Interpretation Officer
For me, being at land’s end in Forillon is an opportunity to contemplate infinity... the ever-changing beauty of the scenery, the amazing force of nature’s elements, the endless sky above, the inestimable wealth of the sea or simply the venerable age of the land beneath my feet. Knowing that these rock formations contain traces of the first animal life forms that inhabited the planet grounds me at our end of this world and lets me believe that life on EARTH is infinite as well... a deep reflection that springs from within, a way to find a meaning for one’s own existence.

NORBERT’S LAND’S END: A TREK TO CAP-GASPÉ AT DAWN

Supervisor, Trail Maintenance
There’s a place I think you absolutely have to visit. I love setting out for this special spot at dawn, serenaded by seabirds and the spouts of whales. Just after you’ve started up the trail, stop for a bit to admire the show. Finally, make your way to the top of the hill; breathe in the ephemeral calm you find there, and enjoy the sight of the lighthouse and sea as they reflect the first rays of the sun. All you still have to do is to look out at the horizon and imagine you’re at land’s end.

LUCIE’S LAND’S END: A DESTINATION WITH A UNIQUE FRAGRANCE!

Executive Assistant
The fragrance of balsam fir, wild flowers and sweet berries wraps me in its embrace whenever I enter Forillon National Park. Grande-Grave, an enchanting spot, amazes me every time I see it. I always take the opportunity to sit on the pebble beach and contemplate what Mother Nature has given us. The sea air, the sound of the waves, the seals and the whales in the distance, the sun that warms me... it’s pure magic! That’s my land’s end!
A SETTING OF SEA AND MOUNTAINS…

SPLENDOUR AND AMAZEMENT!

Created in 1970, Forillon National Park lies at the tip of the Gaspé. Its magnificent sea, cliff and mountain scenery encompasses 245 km². Forillon protects a representative sample of the Notre-Dame and Mégantic mountains as well as certain elements of the Gulf of St. Lawrence maritime region.

Ten different rock formations, several seabird colonies and majestic visiting whales together forge the park’s unique character. The Grande-Grave Heritage Site, located at the heart of this exceptional setting, bears witness to the lifestyles of the fisher folk who lived here in the late 1800s.

Head out to land’s end and enjoy the full splendour of a peninsula as spectacular as it is welcoming.

WHAT DOES THE NAME FORillon MEAN?

The term forillon was used as early as 1534 by Jacques Cartier in his accounts of his voyages to Canada. Champlain also mentions it in a text dating from 1626: [...] one league from the cape of Gaspé is a small rock they call the farillon, a stone’s throw from the mainland [...]. The word forillon thus appears to designate a small, rocky islet standing erect. But the exact location of this forillon remains uncertain. It may have been the remains of a rocky outcrop, visible only at low tide, at the tip of the Gaspé promontory that mapmakers called “La Vieille”; or another rock – no longer standing – one league from Cap-Gaspé, described by Champlain.

In any case, the name forillon is now associated with the peninsula harbouring the magnificent national park that proudly bears the same name.

THE GRANDE-GRAVE HERITAGE SITE

The fascinating human history of the Forillon peninsula is told at Hyman & Sons General Store, Anse-Blanchette and Dobbel-Roberts House.

Some Tips to Help You Observe Wildlife Safely

- Stay a safe distance away from wildlife.
- Adapt the way you drive by slowing down. When observing animals, park your vehicle and stay inside.
- Don't feed wild animals.
- Hike in groups and make noise while on the trail.
- Be on the watch for signs of bears in the area (tracks, excrement, etc.).
- Leave the animals you encounter the space and quiet they need.
- Be aware of the applicable suggestions, notices, rules and restrictions.
- Report any particular situations involving the wildlife to park authorities.

Les Graves Trail, from Anse-aux-Amérindiens to Cap-Gaspé

The seaside trail runs from cove to cove to Cap-Gaspé, land's end.
A FEW RULES...
You may not:
- Hunt, trap, harass, attract or feed the animals;
- Fish in fresh water (ponds, lakes, rivers, creeks, etc.);
- Remove, mutilate or destroy any natural elements (wildlife, plants, fossils, driftwood, deadwood, etc.);
- Make wood fires anywhere except in fireplaces provided for this purpose;
- Camp outside designated campsites;
- Make excessive noise at any time;
- Allow pets wander freely (without a leash); or
- Operate personal watercraft in park waters.

DRINKING WATER
Treated and regularly analysed, potable water is provided at park facilities for visitors. Whenever tests reveal the water to be unfit for drinking, a notice indicating “Non-drinkable water” is immediately posted near each faucet and drinking fountain. In such cases, we recommend the water be boiled for at least three minutes before you drink it.
PLAN AHEAD WHEN SETTING OUT ON THE WATER

Early in the morning when there’s no wind, the sea is sometimes mirror flat, but this rarely lasts all day. And weather conditions can vary considerably from one area of the park to the next. Always keep in mind that the wind can change direction or speed suddenly. Before setting out on the water, check the latest weather forecast and the tide table, or ask park staff for information.

Disabled people can easily access the facilities at Canada’s national parks and historic sites.

Remember that seatbelts must be worn when riding in vehicles and that the Highway Safety Code applies at all times.

THE MONT SAINT-ALBAN TOWER

Perched above the mountains, the tower offers a unique view of the Appalachians where they tumble into the waters of the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

PROTECTING THE NATURAL AND CULTURAL HERITAGE

All components of the natural and cultural heritage are protected in national parks. Harvesting or gathering natural resources, except mackerel which may be fished, is therefore prohibited in the park. Ask park staff about the regulations in force.

CURIOUS IN NATURE...

All summer, Park guide-interpreters are on the spot with their material to help you make the most of Forillon’s marvels. Whether you see them at the Curious in nature stand at Cap-Bon-Ami or the Interpretation Centre or near a Naturalist on duty sign, feel free to ask them any questions you may have and they’ll be delighted to share their passion for the park with you!

TAKE IT EASY; SLOW DOWN, PLEASE

Although you’re on vacation, highway traffic rules still apply. For your safety and that of others, slow down and drive carefully, especially at campgrounds where you’ll be sharing the road with children!

RECREATION
ACTIVITIES

FISH FOR MACKEREL
AT THE GRANDE-GRAVE WHARF!

Safety rules for anglers

• Avoid casting your line near vessels entering or leaving the fishing harbour.
• Whenever a vessel approaches the harbour, make sure your line isn’t in the waterway.
• Because the wharves are very busy, be extra careful when you cast your line.
• Each angler may catch no more than 10 mackerel per day, including any fish returned to the water. No person may have more than 10 mackerel in his or her possession at any time. Each angler may use only one fishing line bearing either a single or a triple hook.
• No fishing permit is required.

Enjoy the fishing!

CYCLE THE PARK

Take your bike to discover Forillon by travelling its secondary roads or one of the trails identified by the following pictogram on the map in the middle of the guide.

People are advised to use mountain or hybrid bikes on the trails. Cycling is not allowed on any other hiking trails.

Bikes can be rented at the Recreation Centre.

EVERYONE INTO THE WATER!

The water at several of the park’s beaches is very inviting. But you’ll have to be particularly careful in some places like Cap-Bon-Ami where strong waves sometimes create an undertow that can drag swimmers out to sea. Please take note that there are no lifeguards at the park’s beaches.

You’d like to discover some of Forillon’s natural and historical treasures?

Come pick up your Xplorer’s booklet at the Interpretation Centre or at Hyman & Sons General Store; it’s free! Complete all or some of the activities and become a certified Parks Canada Xplorer. There’s a small gift waiting for you at the Interpretation Centre.

New! Ask about the Xplorer challenges for visitors from 11 to 14 years of age. They’re fun, you’ll see!

This program gives Year 2 secondary school (or grade 8) students free access to all national parks, national historic sites and national marine conservation areas managed by Parks Canada for one year.

In addition, all Year 2 secondary school (or grade 8) students – and combined classes – can visit these parks and sites free when the trip is organised by their school.

1760. In the spring following the Battle of the Plains of Abraham, the French colony was not yet entirely lost. Everything hinged on who would arrive at Québec City first with supplies. Unfortunately, after a difficult crossing, the French relief forces had to take refuge at the back of Chaleur Bay. The colony’s fate would be decided at Pointe-à-la-Croix.
