Did you know that...

- The island was once called Sea Cow Island or île de la Vache marine after the walrus and seals that lived there. Locals call the seals sea wolves because of the sounds they make.
- Today, you can still see haulouts where they congregate and rest in the shallow waters exposed at low tide
- On the west coast of the island, you can admire magnificent intricately carved cliffs. This rocky landscape has been carved and smoothed by the sea.
- Black guillemots - seabirds sometimes known locally as pigeon de mer - nest in the crevices of cliffs.
