List of Designations of National Historic Significance

The Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada (HSMBC) is a statutory advisory body to the Minister of the Environment on the designation of nationally significant places, persons and events. Since its creation in 1919, the HSMBC has identified 1,849 subjects of national historic significance. Today, the Board maintains its interest in recognizing the various aspects of Canadian political, economic and social history and in keeping with trends in Canadian society and historiography, it is now directing more attention to the history of Aboriginal Peoples, women and ethno-cultural communities in Canada. More information on the HSMBC is available at:

www.hsmbc.gc.ca

The Parks Canada Agency supports the HSMBC in the conduct of its business by undertaking historical and archaeological research, communicating the national historic significance of the designations and ensuring the installation and maintenance of plaques and monuments. There are 904 national historic sites in Canada, 149 of which are administered by Parks Canada.

Approximately 80% of the subjects brought forward for the consideration of the Board are nominated by the public. Enquiries may be addressed to:
