PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

To the Members of the "Historic Landmarks Association of Canada."

There is no inspiration to great deeds in the present; equal to the memory of great deeds in the past. This year, when our hearts and minds and souls are filled with thoughts of War; and the high resolve to wage it to a final and victorious conclusion; it is fitting that our members should recall that the recording of history is one of the necessary corollaries to the making of history; and it is gratifying to find that the public of Canada, as a whole, appreciate this fact.

We have to relate that a copy of our last year's publication of our Report, Guide and Directory of Historic Sites has been included among the documents filed away beneath the Corner Stone of the new Houses of Parliament. We may also mention correspondence from the Library of Congress, at Washington, D.C., in the United States; begging for all the copies of this publication we could spare; and speaking in clear terms of its usefulness. Our new Report, enlarged in many respects, we recommend with confidence, both for your consideration and for your friendly criticism.

Our distinguished "Visitor," His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, on his return to the Old Country, has kindly consented to allow his name to remain as "Patron" of the Association. The present Governor-General, His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire, we are glad to say, permits us to elect him to the vacant position of "Visitor."

Financially we have felt the strain; not so much from any falling off in the number of our subscriptions; as from the increased cost of postages, of paper, and of printing:—our work goes on increasing; and these go on steadily mounting in cost. In this regard, we must ask every member, who realizes this is a work that can not be neglected in war-time, (but rather the reverse), to try and assist the officers by personally obtaining at least one new member during 1917. Such action would help us most materially. All your Officers, (with the sole exception of our hard-working and energetic General Secretary, who draws the most moderate Secretary's salary imaginable), cheerfully give their time and services with no reward but the interest they find in the work. And I wish to express to all of them, and to our Corresponding Societies, and to those individuals historically interested, who have so readily aided us, the grateful thanks and appreciation of the Association for their valuable assistance and co-operation. We take much pleasure, meeting in Ottawa, in congratulating the "Women's Canadian Historical Society of Ottawa," on their good fortune both in securing a home for themselves, and at the same time preserving an Ottawa Landmark in the old "Registry Office" on Nicholas St.

PEMBERTON SMITH,
President.

REPORT OF THE GENERAL SECRETARY

The Season of 1916-17 records two outstanding historical events: the relaying of the "Corner Stone" and the fiftieth anniversary of the birth of our Dominion. Peculiar interest centered in the former unique event, a landmark bearing directly on the latter, our Jubilee of Confederation.

The first of these events took place on the first of September, 1916, when His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, our late Governor-General relaid for our new Parliament Buildings the same foundation stone that was originally laid on the first of September, 1860, by his brother Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, our late King Edward VII.

On the first of July of this year Canada celebrates her golden Jubilee of Confederation. But ere her Jubilee of wondrous prosperity had arrived, she heard, and nobly responded to, an insistent call—the marshalling of the forces of the world to battle against evil. War taught the Netherlands to federate in 1619. It was war which united the States in America; federated Switzerland, Germany, and Austria, and unified Italy. But Canada formed a great national life out of distinct provinces of conflicting interests in a time of peace. "He shall have dominion also from sea to sea, and from the river to the ends of the earth." From this text was decided the name for federated Canada. (Psalm 72-8.)

Many important additions to our Library have been received during the past year, both by gift and exchange. Photographs, blue prints, maps and MSS almost invariably accompanying the reports on historic sites from our special committees and individuals historically interested.

The American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society has asked for a summary of our work to embody in their next Annual Report to the Legislature. The cordial exchange is warmly appreciated, particularly with the knowledge that we are one in earnest endeavor to attain "the supreme purpose." Our hearts go out in warmest sympathy to the members who have lost, in the supreme sacrifice for their country, those who were near and dear to them.

In closing I quote from a tribute received from our eminent historian Lieut.-Colonel William Wood: "Heartiest congratulations on your excellent Report (1916) it is a great achievement . . . as well as a still greater promise of even better things to come."

Respectfully submitted,

J. RUSSELL SIMPSON,

General Secretary.

REPORT OF THE FRENCH SECRETARY

J'ai peu de chose à rapporter, si ce n'est que l'idée fondamentale de notre association est de plus en plus comprise dans les classes lettrées du pays et que, par conséquent, la propagande se fait d'elle-même et qu'elle serait encore plus active si l'état de guerre n'existait pas. On parle d'élever un monument dans le fond de la baie Georgienne, ancienne contrée des Hurons, en souvenir d'Etienne Brulé, l'interprète, que fut tué en cet endroit l'année 1632. Le mérite de ce personnage consiste dans l'exploration de la Pennsylvanie en 1616 et la découverte du lac Supérieur en 1622. Je dois mentionner aussi un travail qui paraîtra bien tôt, de M. Pierre-George Roy, de Lévis, sur tous les monuments commémoratifs érigés jusqu'à ce jour en Canada et nul doute que la lecture de ces pages, riches en renseignements, ne contribue pour beaucoup à mieux faire comprendre l'oeuvre patriotique que nous poursuivons.

Le tout respectueusement soumis,

BENJAMIN SULTE,

Secrétaire Français.

REPORT OF THE TREASURER

30th April, 1917.

To the President and Members of

The Historic Landmarks Association of Canada.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Once more I have the honour of laying before you the financial position of The Historic Landmarks Association of Canada for the year ending the 30th April, 1917.

The total receipts for the year were-----	$371.19
and the balance in the bank brought forward was	326.69
a total of -----	697.88
The working expenses were -----	392.35
leaving a balance of -----	305.53

towards the requirements of the coming year.

There are arrears due from individual members of, say, $40.00 and from affiliated Societies of $10.00, which it is hoped will be remitted.

I would point out to the members of the Association that as its work and objects widen out, the expenses increase more than proportionately; and as a great deal of matter has been accumulated in the past year, it is much to be hoped that the members will exert themselves to increase our numbers. Forms for admission will be forwarded with the Reports, and I trust interest will be taken in increasing the annual revenue.

There are now twelve Life Members, the money from whom should be capitalized and made a permanent fund. At present this is an impossibility, and all that can be done is to show the amount due this account and trust that later on the money used in the interests of the Association will be replaced.

Anticipating your interested and active assistance, the foregoing is

Respectfully submitted,

G. DURNFORD,

Honorary Treasurer.

S. port under the British flag; the first steam transport in Portugal; the first steam man-of-war in Spain; the first naval steamer to fire a shot in action, on May 5th, 1836, under Commodore Henry, then in command of the British Auxiliary Steam Squadron, in the Bay of St. Sebastian, Spain, under her Spanish name of Isabella Segunda."

NEWFOUNDLAND

CAPE BONAVISTA, NEWFOUNDLAND.

The traditional landing place of John Cabot, who on the 24th June, 1497, at early dawn sighted the new world. Historians are not agreed as to the landfall, some holding it to be Cape Breton and some Labrador, but the tradition in Newfoundland, which has been handed down since 1600, points to Cape Bonavista.

CUPIDS, NEWFOUNDLAND.

Guy's Colony, under the charter of James I. to Lord Bacon and his associates, was founded at this place in Conception Bay in 1610. Guy was an Alderman of Bristol and sailed from there on his colonization scheme in May, 1610, making a quick passage and had houses and mills erected before the cold weather set in.

CARBONEAR, NEWFOUNDLAND.

Battery at Carbonear—Built and manned by the inhabitants in 1690, successfully resisted the French attacks under D'Iberville in 1696.

CARBONEAR, NEWFOUNDLAND.

Until quite recently, were to be seen, the Charcoal pits used to produce the charcoal for the winter heating of the houses of the earliest inhabitants. Channel Islanders were among the first settlers and it is a matter of record that they called the charcoal pits Charbonniere, hence the corruption of the name to Carbonear.

TRINITY HARBOUR, NEWFOUNDLAND.

ADMIRALS ISLAND AND FORT POINT This was the head station of the Fishing Admiral. As early as the middle of the sixteenth century cannon were mounted here during the fishing season as a defence against pirates. About 1700 the Imperial Government erected permanent batteries here and stationed a small force of artillery men on the Island and point. There were no soldiers there in 1762, and the fort was in a dilapidated condition, when the French took it and threw the guns into the sea. Batteries were repaired and remanned in 1763. About 1800 a brick barracks was erected at the Point Fort and a bomb proof magazine for ammunition. Nothing now remains, earth works in ruins, and a few cannon embedded in the sod.

TRINITY HARBOUR, NEWFOUNDLAND.

FOX ISLAND—At the Northern side of the entrance to Trinity, is not really an Island but a peninsula as at its inner end it is connected with a long beach. A battery of eight guns was mounted here on the outer part of the Island in 1705. During war time inhabitants of the North side of Trinity Bay were ordered by the Governor to winter at Fox Island.

TRINITY HARBOUR, NEWFOUNDLAND.

THE CHURCH REGISTER AT TRINITY—founded by The Rev. Benjamin Lindsay and dating from 1755 is the oldest register of births, deaths and marriages in Newfoundland.

TRINITY HARBOUR, NEWFOUNDLAND.

At the Western end of Ryan's premises is still standing an old store, known as "the Pork Store" built by Benjamin Lester in 1763, it is probably the oldest existing building in Newfoundland.

BEOTHUCKS, NEWFOUNDLAND.

Beothucks, or Red Indians, the original inhabitants of Newfoundland, became extinct about 100 years ago. Some of their burial places have been found at Tilt Island, one of the Ragged Islands in Placentia Bay; Swan Island, Bay of Exploits; Indian Burying Place, Notre Dame Bay, and at Port au Choix. At Fleur de Lis, on North East Coast, Indians obtained soapstone or Steatite from which they manufactured their pots and other vessels, evidences of this manufacture are to be seen in the Hills and surrounding places.

RED INDIAN LAKE, NEWFOUNDLAND.

Last of the Beothuck Indians seen here by Lieutenant Buchan in 1819. The remains of wigwams, canoes, deer fences, etc., were found by Peyton and Buchan showing that this was one of the chief places of resort of the Red Indians of Newfoundland. Near by at Grand Falls, are the great Paper Mills of the Anglo Newfoundland Development Company.

PLACENTIA, NEWFOUNDLAND.

OLD TOMBSTONES—A tombstone with the inscription in Basque recording the burial of a Basque fisherman on the 1st May, 1676, and one recording the death in 1694 of an officer of a French frigate, who was also a Basque, are preserved in the Church of England at this place being found in the old graveyard near by.

PLACENTIA, NEWFOUNDLAND.

MEADOWS FORT—Situated on the Meadow's point, it is mentioned by Lahontan in his plan of Placentia made in 1692.

PLACENTIA, NEWFOUNDLAND.

Court House built in 1730, has been replaced by a new one. The old Magisterial Bench has been honoured by King William IV., Lord Rodney, Capt. Buchan and other notables. A tip staff is still in existence, with the quarterings on it of the House of Hanover, that had been in use since the reign of George II.

PLACENTIA, NEWFOUNDLAND.

GANNON POINT FORT—A small redoubt built by the English in 1715 to command the Roadstead. A sketch of the Block House appears in the Diary of Prince William Henry (afterwards William IV).

CHURCH PLATE—In care of the Bradshaw family is the Communion Service of solid silver presented by Prince William Henry, afterwards William IV, to the Church of England in Placentia, in 1787.

ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND.

KING'S BEACH—Here on the 5th August, 1583, Sir Humphrey Gilbert landed, erected a tent in sight of all the ships in the harbour, summoned the English and foreign merchants to attend, and in their presence, caused the Commission under the Great Seal of England to be publicly read, and took possession of the adjacent lands in the name of Queen Elizabeth.

ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND.

Fort William—A fort was here as early as 1618. After the departure of the troops in 1870, it fell into disrepair and one by one its buildings have disappeared the last of them having been dismantled in 1915. This fort commanded the entrance to the Harbour and several times was taken by the French and retaken by the English. In 1705 it resisted an attack by the French under Subercase, but in January, 1708, Saint Ovide took it and dismantled it and the town was destroyed. In 1762 the French appeared in force and captured St. John's, Fort William again changed hands, but five months later the French were driven out.

ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND.

QUEEN'S BATTERY—Situated on the plateau over the Narrows at an elevation of about 420 feet. It was begun in 1763 and enlarged and made stronger in 1809.

ST. JOHN'S NEWFOUNDLAND.

FORT AMHERST—Erected in 1763 and called after Colonel Amherst, who was in charge of troops at the re-taking of the town from the French in 1762. It is situated on the point of the southern head at the entrance to the Narrows in a very commanding position. A light was first established there in 1812.

ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND.

OLD GOVERNMENT HOUSE—Situated on Duke York Street, was built in 1779 and first occupied by the Governor, Rear Admiral Edwards. It continued to be Government House until 1809. It was destroyed in the great fire of 1892. The garden by which it was surrounded was known as "The Garden" for many years, and was celebrated for its beauty.

ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND.

DUKE YORK BATTERY—Situated on the Southern Shoulder of the crest of Signal Hill. Mounted eight 24 pounder guns, four 18 inch pounder carronades and two ten inch mortars. Dated 1796.

ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND.

FREDERICK BATTERY—Erected by Lt.-Col. Durnford, R.E., in 1812, was situated on the south side of the Narrows opposite and east of the Pancake Rock and was fitted with ovens for the baking of shot to a red heat.

ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND.

CHAIN ROCK—Situated at the narrowest part of the entrance to the harbor and opposite Pancake Rock. A chain of very large size was fastened to this rock and lay across the narrows with its other end fastened to a large capstan on Pancake, by which means it was raised sufficiently to prevent the entrance of any vessel larger than a fishing boat.

ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND.

FORT TOWNSHEND—Situated at the top of the land dividing St. John's from the Freshwater valley, at a height of three hundred feet above sea level; commands the harbour and entrance. It was begun in 1773 and finished in 1779. From 1780 to 1829 the Governor had his dwelling there. Its Barracks are now occupied by the Constabulary.

ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND.

KINGS WHARF—Here on the 22nd July, 1860, His Royal Highness, Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, afterwards reigning as King Edward VII., landed and set foot for the first time in the New World.

LABRADOR, NEWFOUNDLAND.

FORT YORK—Built at Chateau Bay by order of Governor Palliser in 1765.

The plan of the fort is shown in Prowse's History of Newfoundland at page 327.

NOTE—In 1809 Capt. Durnford sailed from Portsmouth to Newfoundland for the purpose of putting the fortifications at St. John's in order. In 1816 he was transferred to Quebec with rank of Lieut.-Colonel in command of the Royal Engineers in Canada, and had full charge of the remodelling and reconstruction of the Citadel and fortifications at Quebec.

HARBOUR GRACE, NEWFOUNDLAND.

THE PIRATE'S LAIR, tradition tells us, was around Ship's Head, at the head of the Harbour, where Pirate Easton used to careen his vessels. Cannon balls, old cutlasses, and many other naval relics were found here by old Captain John Stevenson, after he purchased the land. Among the things found there was a curious anchor, an old oak sign board with "St. Sebastian" carved upon it, an old Spanish windlass, that belonged to a large ship, and a lot of foreign timber.

HARBOUR GRACE, NEWFOUNDLAND.

The old Court House stood where Gordon Lodge now is. About 1810 the Justices sentenced a man to be pilloried, and to receive thirty-six strokes of the cat o' nine tails on the bare back. This was the last time the pillory was used in Harbor Grace.

HEART'S CONTENT, NEWFOUNDLAND.

First successful Atlantic Cable landed here by the Great Eastern on the 27th July, 1866, and the Anglo American Telegraph Coy's staff installed in commodious buildings. Four Trans-Atlantic cables are now working from this point.

BAY BULLS ARM, NEWFOUNDLAND.

First Atlantic Cable connecting Europe and America landed here. The S.S. Niagara arrived from Valentia, Ireland on the 17th August, 1858, and successful connection was made and communication opened. After several hours working it became silent, the core having been destroyed by employing batteries of too great power.

CAPE RAY COVE, NEWFOUNDLAND.

Point at which, in 1856, the first cable was landed connecting Newfoundland with the neighbouring Continent, and ultimately linking America and Europe. The cable was landed at Cape Ray Cove and the steamer, carrying the cable, proceeded towards Cape North subsequently connecting with the shore end in Aspé Bay.

The New York, Newfoundland and London Telegraph Company promoted the undertaking, Peter Cooper and Cyrus Field both visiting St. John's and personally superintending the work of laying the cable.

CAPE RACE, NEWFOUNDLAND.

South East Point of Newfoundland made by ships on their voyages between Northern Europe and Northern America. When the cable across the Gulf was successfully laid in 1856, and a land line connected with Cape Race, Mail steamers from England threw overboard water tight canisters containing news matter which was picked up by a boat in waiting, and, on landing, the news was telegraphed to the principal cities in America, this practice was continued until August, 1866.
