The spectacular Columbia Icefield Drive, extending some eighty miles from Jasper Park Lodge to this great area of snow and ice, reveals new glories of mountain and ravine, new cadences in glacier born stream and river, singing among the boulders or shouting at the falls. Majestic mountains viewed from the valley gain in grandeur as the road rises above the tree-line. Hurrying clouds and changing lights and shadows transform and transfigure the landscape so that it is never the same, but a thing of ever-changing beauty.

The cover reproduction of a natural color photograph is a glimpse of Mount Athabaska and the Athabaska Glacier from a point on the Columbia Icefield Drive some four miles distant. This vast icefield will be new to many visitors, for until the highway was opened recently it was accessible only to travellers by pack-train.
WITHIN the pages of this booklet are contained the results of an honest endeavor to describe the beauty and to tell the story of Jasper National Park in as simple and straightforward fashion as the subject permits. No one who has not attempted such a task can appreciate fully the almost total inadequacy of language to perform it. Words are chosen, only to be discarded for other words, until, sometimes, the sense of futility that the right one ever can be found is overwhelming.

This immense playground in the heart of the Canadian Rocky Mountains is a huge canvas upon which Nature has splashed her colors with a lavish brush, and used the arts of magic to limn the contours of a world of almost indescribable grandeur. Within the borders of this Park, one mountain range succeeds another, unnumbered serried buttresses between earth and sky. Through countless valleys silver ribbons unroll themselves in their long linking of the mountains with the sea. Among still forests carpeting the valleys and clothing the lower slopes with a never-fading green, little lakes nestle in undisturbed tranquility; lakes that shimmer like jewels in the sun, some of them sapphire, some amethyst, some opalescent and others wrought of purest jade. Higher yet, beyond where the trees can follow, lush alpine meadows stretch themselves in freedom and among them glow and twinkle flowers of every hue. Above these alplands rise the peaks, uncounted numbers of them, great glaciers nursing at their breasts and their gleaming snow-capped crowns holding eternal communion with the sun by day and with the stars by night.

This is Jasper; a vision whose loveliness once seen never can be forgotten; a masterpiece fashioned and tinted by the Master Craftsman of the Universe for the delight of man.
Colorful Pyramid Mountain lends its name and beauty to this avenue of charming alpine lodges at Jasper Park Lodge.
More than any other part of the Rocky Mountains, that section of them which is enclosed by the boundaries of Jasper National Park, has been identified with the colorful and romantic history of Western Canada. It was one of the rich fur domains for which the Hudson Bay Company and the Northwest Company fought bitterly early in the nineteenth century. Then traders and trappers, voyageurs and explorers, missionary priests and pagan Indians moved in procession up and down the Athabaska Trail which cut through the heart of the Jasper Park of today. At a tiny lake almost on the crest of the watershed of the Whirlpool River, west and east bound brigades met, exchanged goods, toasted each other's health in a keg of rum and returned along their separate paths. This meeting place became known as the Committee Punch Bowl, a name it still retains. The name of David Thompson, Gabriel Franchere, David Douglas, Pierre de Smet and Sir James Hector recall a few of the heroic figures who are associated with the early history of Jasper. The name of the park itself perpetuates the memory of Jasper Hawes, an old servant of the Northwest Trading Company, whose post stood near the site of the present Town of Jasper.

Jasper National Park is situated in the western section of Central Alberta and its borders embrace 4,200 square miles of Rocky Mountain territory. This is an area only slightly smaller than the State of Connecticut. The main line of the Canadian National Railways runs through the park and makes it easily accessible by way of Winnipeg and Edmonton in the east, and Vancouver and Prince Rupert in the west.

Administration headquarters are situated in the Town of Jasper, the only centre of population within the park.

Three miles from the town is located Jasper Park Lodge, the summer resort operated by the railway and the centre of social and tourist activity from the middle of June to the middle of September.

The Town of Jasper lies close to the Athabaska River near its confluence with the Miette River. At this point the valleys of the two rivers meet and widen to form a great bowl which provides a splendid panorama of the surrounding ranges and peaks. These are as varied as they are numerous. To the east the wolf-grey ridge of the Colin Range saws at the sky and, in direct contrast, to the northwest, looms the bulk of Pyramid Mountain, a symmetrical peak whose slopes are shot through with soft browns, maroons and purples. Southeastward, like the neglected bastion of some ancient castle, Mount Tekarra frowns upon the youthful forests below. Then come in quick succession, Hardisty and Mount Kerkeslin, the latter with its terraced slopes looking like something transplanted from a Japanese print. To the southwest, splitting the Athabaska and Miette, rise the friendly forested slopes of the Whistler Range and then beyond them, almost directly south, in lone and regal beauty stands the matchless form of Mount Edith Cavell. This is part of the picture the eye may discern from Jasper, but it is not all.

To see the full beauty of this playground it is necessary to take some of the motor drives which are available, or to heave oneself upon the broad back of a not too lovely looking, but thoroughly intelligent horse and follow some of the wanton trails which seem to wander willy-nilly through the forests, the valleys and the upland meadows where the wind blows free. These nomadic paths lead to the almost overwhelming splendour of the Columbia Icefield with its cloud-piercing peaks and gigantic glaciers; to the unrivaled beauty of Maligne Lake in whose emerald facets are mirrored the glittering silver of the snow-capped mountains which crowd close upon its upper shore; to the Tonquin Valley against whose lush bosom nestle three liquid gems wherein are imprisoned the image of the stern, forbidding Rampart Range. Nor are these all. There is the rushing turbulence of the Rocky River forcing its way through box-like canyons as it hurries to its wedding with the Athabaska. There is Shovel Pass far above timber line where in July and August millions of flowers blossom almost unheeded and unseen close to the still melting snows. Beyond these there are many others just as beautiful and many which even in this day and age wait to respond to the first footstep of a human being.

WITHIN Jasper National Park there are approximately 200 miles of motor roads. These highways have been carefully routed to provide the widest selection of scenery and interest and they are surfaced with gravel to insure safety under all weather conditions.

Until the completion of the highway between Jasper and the Columbia Icefield, the favorite drive in the park has been that to Mount Edith Cavell. Leaving Jasper Park Lodge this highway crosses the Athabaska and Miette Rivers and enters upon a long upward climb along the east slope of the Whistler Range. After crossing Portal Creek and the Astoria River the route commences a spiral ascent which permits of a fine panorama north and south almost the whole length of the Athabaska Valley and discloses many mountain peaks which are not seen from the floor of the valley. Continuing its route southward the drive proceeds past Franchere, Throne and Sorrow Peaks to end at the foot of the Angel Glacier on Mount Edith Cavell.

A second popular drive is that which leads from the Lodge to Pocahontas and thence to the Miette Hot Springs. This drive follows northward along the Athabaska Valley to Pocahontas and besides traversing a region rich in historical lore and affording excellent views of the mountains in that section of the Park, it is a favorite drive with visitors because of the opportunities which it presents to see wild life. Moose, deer, elk, bear, mountain sheep (big horn) and sometimes mountain goat are abundant in that area.

Two short drives are those which run from the Lodge to Maligne Canyon and Pyramid Lake. For description of the New Columbia Icefield Drive, see pages 14 and 15.

(Details of all motor drives are found on page 26)
SKYLINE TRAIL

Of all the saddle trips in Jasper none is more spectacular than the Skyline Trail, which begins at Shovel Pass Camp and winds its way upward to an elevation of more than 8,000 feet, there unfolding in dazzling panorama, such a picture as few have seen. Proceeding up the Pass about a mile until it is above timber line it curves left, around the shore of an exquisite sapphire lake, and then, begins a steep ascent to the south-east shoulder of Mount Tekarra.

From here one sees, for the first time, the whole wide range of this great park, from the white disorder of the Columbia Icefield in the south to the grey portals of the playground in the north; from Mount Brazeau in the east, to the great gleaming plume of Mount Robson in the west.

The trail unwinds along the topmost edge of the ridge until it descends into Tekarra Valley and continues to the ascent of the kindly slopes of Signal Mountain. From the top of Signal Mountain the trail glides downward and on to Jasper Park Lodge.

(For details on saddle trips please see pages 28, 29 and 32)
The Jasper Park Lodge Golf Course, rated among the Continent's finest. Its unmatched pictorial setting, broad fairways and beautifully contoured greens, its traps, bunkers and water hazards, assure an interesting game. Ambling bear offer an added thrill on the fairways.

GOLF

Golf at Jasper is something to cheer about, for here in one of the most magnificent settings on earth has been created the kind of course that the average golfer dreams of, but never expects to play. From every tee to every green a velvety carpet of fairway spans the whole distance so that should a golfer be so unfortunate as to dribble his drive he can be assured of a perfect brassie lie for his next shot. It will have to be admitted that there are some hazards on the course that the architect did not design. A poolful of speckled trout leaping in the sunshine in front of the tenth tee is, undoubtedly, somewhat disconcerting to the golfer who is also an angler. The necessity of having to step aside occasionally to allow a few strolling black bears to vacate the course may not be the best tonic for the nerves of the player who is contemplating a pitch shot to a rolling green, and some difficulty may be experienced in addressing the ball with complacency when one discovers that here is a gallery of wide-eyed mule deer in the offing. Nor is a dispute with a porcupine over rights to a section of the rough, calculated to improve the temper of either, but at least all of these things which are part and parcel of this course make it unique and contribute to its charm.

Because the course is situated plumb in the middle of the Canadian Rockies one of the most frequent questions asked about it by golfers who are long on enthusiasm for the game, but short of breath, is "how hilly is it?". The answer to that is—"It isn’t". Except for the seventeenth hole which has a short uphill pull, the Jasper Park Lodge Golf Course has been laid out to take full advantage of the terrain both from the standpoint of the golf and of the golfer.

In all particulars the course is of championship caliber. It has been the scene of the Canadian Amateur Golf Championship and each year, for the past ten years, golfers of international repute have flocked there to play in the annual tournament for the Totem Pole Trophy. All of the eighteen holes have different yardages. No two holes are similar either in length or layout and one of the outstanding features of the course according to a former winner of the U.S. Amateur is that it permits no let-up to the expert golfer. The course is well trapped but with fairness. The player who wants to take the short route from any one of the three tees which are provided for every hole, has plenty of trouble to negotiate. But the dub can have a perfectly swell time if he can shoot just a little bit straight because the hazards have been designed mostly to catch the long hitter.

The course has four one-shot holes and the longest hole is a par five which is nearly six hundred yards from markers to flag. The tenth and fourteenth holes call for a drive over water and the sixteenth green is trapped by an arm of the lake. Competent, thoroughly trained caddies are available and a professional is always in attendance for instruction.

It is during Golf Week that the popularity of this course reaches its height each season. This week is scheduled always for early in September and the atmosphere in and around the Lodge during that period is like that of a club where everyone knows everyone else and all are having a grand time. The major event of the week is the competition for the Totem Pole Trophy, one of the most unique of golf prizes, but there are many other events too. In fact, the tournament is so designed that a golfer remains in the running for at least one prize for four out of the seven days during the life of the competition. This in itself is unusual because in most tournaments the players begin to drop by the wayside immediately the qualifying round is ended. But the tournament at Jasper, like the course itself, aims to be and is in a class by itself.

So many places on the surface of this fair earth have been advertised as “A Fisherman's Paradise” and have been proved not to be, that there is much reason for an angler, upon hearing the term again, to lift a quizzical eyebrow and to utter a skeptical “Oh, yeah!”. But if, in the mind of a disciple of Isaak Walton, fishing is reduced to terms of trout, then Jasper truly may be defined as an angler’s heaven, for within the boundaries of this vast playground there exist almost limitless waterways, many of them rich in possibilities and others permanently assured of first place ranking among the trout waters of the world.

The Maligne Lake watershed has no rival in the realm of Eastern brook trout fishing. This watershed consists of Maligne Lake which has a length of fourteen miles and is glacial fed. Out of this lake runs the Maligne River which tumbles noisily down hill for twelve miles, a tossing turbulence of rapids all the way. At the end of its journey it empties into Medicine Lake, a body of water about four miles long by a quarter of a mile wide. In 1927, the government took advantage of this natural sanctuary for fish, to stock the waters which up to that time were devoid of fish, with Eastern brook trout. Today, experts estimate that there are more than a million adult trout in these waters.

On a parity with the speckled trout fishing in Maligne Lake is the Rainbow fishing in the Tonquin Valley. Two lakes in this valley, Amethyst and Chrome, were stocked with Kamloops trout, an especially fine fighting branch of the Rainbow family. These lakes find an outlet to the Athabaska River twenty miles distant through the Astoria River which is one continuous series of ripples and rapids all the way. The waters of these lakes and this river are literally filled with Rainbow trout, some of them running as high as six pounds in weight.

Dolly Varden trout are to be found in Jacques Lake, a beautiful secluded tarn about nine miles from Medicine Lake and a number of the small lakes within a reasonable distance of Jasper Park Lodge afford excellent Rainbow trout fishing. Along the southern section of the Athabaska Valley, the Whirlpool River Valley and the Sunwapta River Valley there are uncounted numbers of small lakes hidden in the forest and discernible only from the mountain tops. As these lakes feed the arterial streams which provide the routes followed by trout to their spawning grounds in the fall, it is reasonable to suppose that many of them will prove to be rich in sport, especially Rainbow trout which are indigenous to the region.

Alpinists find in Jasper National Park unscaled peaks to tax their skill and courage.

CLIMBING

The attitude of the uninformed and uninterested towards the subject of mountain climbing is that this pastime is enjoyed solely by those who inhibit homicidal inclinations. However, the fact remains that despite the lack of understanding which they suffer from their fellow men, a large number of people are interested and actively engage in mountain climbing.

For many years, even prior to the time when it was set aside as a national playground, the peerless possibilities of Jasper for mountain climbers has been recognized and most of the world’s outstanding alpinists have, at one time or another visited the Park. In some instances they have come as individuals and in others as groups and the effect of their achievements is noticeable in the nomenclature of the area.

However, it will be many years before the mountain climbing possibilities of Jasper have been explored fully. While hundreds of peaks have been scaled there are many hundreds upon whose crests no man has yet set foot and while many of the mountains are named, there are still many which are not. Particularly appealing to alpinists are those sections of Jasper which may be described roughly as the Columbia Icefield, the Whirlpool River sector, the Tonquin Valley and the Maligne Lake district. All of these areas have something different to offer the mountaineer.

Providing sufficient notice is given, experienced guides will be obtained for parties desirous of mountain climbing.
BIG GAME AND CAMERA HUNTING

As well as being a playground for people, Jasper National Park is also a game sanctuary. Within its borders many types of birds and beast dwell in harmony among themselves and in friendship with man. Consequently the utmost in opportunities is offered to the hunter with the camera to return home with many prize trophies imprisoned in celluloid.

Bears and gentle-eyed deer are to be found almost everywhere. It is not necessary to step farther than the shore of Lac Beauvert to become acquainted with beaver. Moose are most likely to be found feeding among the marshes, and sheep inhabiting the salt licks along the Pocahontas Highway, elk in the vicinity of Pyramid Lake or near Mounts Tekarra and Kerkeslin. Near Athabaska Falls is perhaps the best spot at which to secure pictures of mountain goat. On the west slope of Shovel Pass are flocks of mountain sheep. For caribou no point in the park is as likely to produce such fine results as Maccarib Pass.

Game animals may be seen from the trails and motor roads in this vast game sanctuary. Reading from left: Mountain Goat, Mule Deer, Caribou, Beaver, Mountain Sheep.
COLUMBIA ICEFIELD

Relic of the age when colossal glaciers swept across North America, Mother of Rivers of whose womb are born three rivers flowing to three different seas, the Columbia Icefield at the southern extremity of Jasper National Park has been one of the marvels of the world, but because the area could be reached only by a ten day saddle trip from Jasper, not more than a handful of people have seen it.

This immense glacial cap, covering 150 square miles, is the largest icefield south of the Arctic Circle. It crosses the Great Divide and buries under millions of tons of ice, peaks which like Snow Dome rise higher than eleven thousand feet. Within its frigid body three rivers find life—the Columbia, flowing to the Pacific, the Saskatchewan, which makes its way to the Atlantic and the Athabaska whose waters finally reach the Arctic Ocean. Today this wonder of the world is remote no longer. The return trip now can be completed in from five to six hours by motor cars using the new highway from Jasper Park Lodge right to the foot of the Athabaska Glacier.

The route follows the Cavell Highway for a distance of eight and one half miles when it turns sharply left to reach the valley floor at the confluence of the Athabaska and the Whirlpool Rivers. Crossing the Whirlpool it ascends the divide which separates the two rivers and then slips downward to rejoin the Athabaska at the Falls.

The new Columbia Icefield Drive attains its spectacular climax at the foot of the Athabaska Glacier.
At Mile 35, a short digression of the road leads to the upper Sunwapta Falls which are even more violent in their downward plunge than those of the Athabaska. Five miles past these Falls the highway descends to the right bank of the river and far ahead there is disclosed a tremendous semicircle of gigantic mountains.

Nothing can do justice to the thrilling magnificence of the picture that is now revealed. Left and right, behind and beyond, forbidding masses of black rock wall in the valley. Along the crest of Snow Dome, a gargantuan precipice of ice, blue-green and hundreds of feet thick, seems to be trying to press the mountain into the earth. Nearby, below the hoary head of Kitchener, a field of emerald ice clinging desperately to the mountain side, spills a wraith-like waterfall.

Within 200 yards of where the highway loops to begin its return journey, the Athabaska Glacier pushes a resentful toe into the valley. Crevassed and wrinkled by the untold aeons of its life, it crawls up the steep sides of Mount Athabaska, grabbing a foothold where it can, so that sometimes it seems to be not one but many glaciers, until in silent triumph it wins to the crest and sweeps over it in majesty to the farther side to unite itself again with the great Columbia Icefield from which it stemmed.

(See page 27 for additional information)
NOWHERE is there a summer hotel more picturesque or more admirably adapted to its surroundings. Although it lacks no element required to provide the highest type of accommodation and service, it does not intrude even one discordant note upon its alpine environment. Outwardly it has no resemblance to a city hotel. It nestles confidingly among the trees and fashions for itself a natural place in its mountain setting. Inwardly it glows with warm, unobtrusive luxury and radiates an atmosphere of charming informality, without neglecting any of the essentials which discriminating guests expect of modern hotel service.

The Lodge consists of a large central building from which groups of bungalows are deployed in fan-like formation. The main building and these bungalows are rustic in the style of their architecture, but so carefully has the design been selected and followed that no sense of crudeness or incompleteness is evident. Instead, the feeling is that here the mind and skill of man have attuned themselves to the spirit of Nature and have wrought a creation which fits into and completes a noble picture.

Jasper Park Lodge lies three miles, by road, from the railway station and the site selected for it was the shore of Lac Beauvert, a molten jewel whose emerald sheen changes to opalescent hues whenever the trailing shadow of a cloud sweeps its surface with a noiseless brush. Across this lake the Lodge looks out upon a broad and verdant valley, a vast and quiet amphitheatre protected from the turmoil of a world outside by the sheltering bulwarks of the giant ranges and their peaks. Behind the Lodge the “Old Man” sleeps undisturbed athwart the grey ridge of the Colin Range. To the right the warm colors of Pyramid Mountain smile upon the scene and to the left the embattled peak of Tekarra holds high its scarred, defiant face. Straight down the valley, beyond the friendly Whistlers, in regal dignity, beneath her silver crown, Mount Edith Cavell surveys her broad domain. And when the air is still the glass she uses to reflect her queenly features is the limpid waters of Beauvert.

The bungalows, fronted by paved paths winding among broad lawns that sweep down to the water’s edge, vary in size and in appointment. Some are planned to accommodate two guests, others four and they range upward in size until the largest cabin has in it twenty-four rooms. But irrespective of their size all bungalows are modernly complete. Each room is connected with the main Lodge by telephone. Each is steam-heated, lighted with electricity, has hot and cold running water, is attractively furnished and the majority have private bath. Some bungalows even contain their own dining rooms and kitchens and all are adequately provided with sitting room space.

While a certain number of bedrooms are situated in the main Lodge, this building is utilized largely to provide the public rooms of the hotel. There is a huge lounge in the centre of which is located a double-faced, open, wood-burning fireplace. Off the lounge, on one side is the ball-room where motion pictures are shown and dances held nightly. A door from this room leads to a cozy “snack” room, where light refreshments are to be had. In another direction the lounge leads to the dining room in which nearly four hundred guests can be served at a sitting. The orchestra stand is so situated that the music provided nightly during the dinner hour can be heard in the dining room and lounge simultaneously. The desk, cigar counter, shops and other facilities also are adjacent to the lounge. Valet service, hair-dressing salon, barber shop and a medical room in charge of a doctor and a trained nurse are available for those who may require these services.

An outstanding feature of the service provided by the Lodge is the food. Prepared in the most modern type of kitchen under the supervision of some of the best chefs in the Dominion of Canada and served by waitresses who have been selected carefully for their appearance and their ability—most of them are university students—the meals at Jasper Park Lodge have become famous. Care is taken also to see that there is always a varied menu from which to select so that the complaint of monotony so frequently made concerning summer resort menus never is voiced at Jasper.

In front of the main Lodge a wide expanse of lawn slopes to the lake with rock gardens, flower beds and trees lending it added charm. On the shore of the lake stands a rustic structure, the top of which is an open-air heated swimming pool with a wading end for children. The lower section is a boat-house where a fleet of row boats and canoes are maintained for the pleasure of guests. On the opposite side of the main Lodge are situated the tennis courts which have been constructed by experts and are of championship calibre.

Dotting the lawns and skirting the edge of the lake are benches shaded by large colorful umbrellas where one may sit to enjoy the beauty of the scenery and to revel in the rich tranquility of the mountains.

OTHER HOTELS

Visitors to Jasper National Park will find in Jasper town hospitality and accommodation calculated to suit every purse and every taste. The hotels in the town are comfortably furnished, modern in equipment and reasonable in price. Their friendly atmosphere, the appointments and excellence of their cuisine are gratefully remembered by all who share their hospitality.
Maligne Lake—
Nature's Masterpiece, a challenge to the artist and the poet—an inspiration to mere mortals—called "the most beautiful lake in the world".
The speckled trout fishing in Maligne Lake and River offers rare sport.
MIETTE HOT SPRINGS

Among the natural wonders of the Park are the Miette Hot Springs, accessible by motor road from Jasper by way of Pocohontas, the latter being on the main park highway between the town and the eastern entrance to the Park.

The Springs are among the hottest on the Continent, the waters reaching a temperature of 126° Fahrenheit where they issue from rocks.

Realizing the importance of the springs from the point of view of their health-giving qualities, the Dominion Department of Mines and Resources, which administers all National Parks in Canada, has completed the construction of a modern bathing establishment at the site of the springs, which will be available for public use in 1938. The structure, located at an elevation of 4,500 feet above sea level, combines a large outdoor swimming pool equipped with submarine floodlight illumination, and bathhouse which is provided with 68 dressing cubicles with showers and toilet facilities adjoining. It is expected that the water in the pool will be maintained at a temperature of approximately 100° Fahrenheit.

There is no hotel accommodation at Miette Hot Springs. Excellent hotel accommodation may be obtained at Jasper Park Lodge, and hotels in the town of Jasper.

MALIGNE LAKE

Maligne Chalet, commanding a full view of Maligne Lake, is situated on a low plateau at the outlet. Before the Chalet and extending in a southeasterly direction for seventeen miles, with a breadth varying from two hundred yards to two miles and possessing some fifty miles of shore line, lies the largest glacial-fed lake in the Canadian Rockies.

Beginning with Mount Samson (the jagged peak, ten thousand feet high, which faces the Chalet on the left) the altitude of the peaks forming the Maligne group (Mounts Charlton, Unwin, Warren, Mary Vaux and Maligne) increases until, in Mount Brazeau, a height of twelve thousand two hundred and fifty feet is reached—one thousand feet higher than Mount Edith Cavell and almost as high as Mount Robson itself.

The mountains rise precipitously from the lake and are heavily laden with snow and ice. At the southwest end of the lake, farthest from the Chalet, lies a considerable snowfield, and leading in a southerly direction towards the Brazeau River district, along the western base of Mount Brazeau, is a high broad, snow pass, affording an easy way of access to this very interesting neighbourhood. The mountains in the Maligne Lake district afford every opportunity for both ice and rock climbing and many comparatively easy climbs may be undertaken by the amateur.

The mountains, meadows, and flowers of the alplands will prove of interest to botanist and naturalist alike. Sheep, goat, cariboo, moose, and deer frequent these pastures. The Opal Hills, facing the Chalet on the east, provide sheep and goat for the observation of the visitor, while the mountain sides, overlooking the lake and particularly those about the southeast, are used extensively by the mountain goat as a summer pasture.

Additional charge for room and meals at Chalets. Time for return trip, approximately four days.

The first five miles of the trail lie eastward from Jasper Park Lodge down the Athabaska Valley to the Maligne River. The route then follows the Maligne River for nine miles along the base of the Colin Range to Medicine Lake, thence... along the shore for a distance of three and one-half miles to Medicine Lake Chalet. From Medicine Lake Chalet there is a ten-mile stretch of good trail along the east bank of the Maligne River to Maligne Lake Chalet.

MALIGNE LAKE AND SKY LINE TRAIL TRIP

Saddle Trip No. 11: For those who enjoy riding at a high altitude, the return trip from Maligne Lake over the Sky Line Trail offers a new and exhilarating experience. If snow conditions permit, this trip will be operated between July 10th and August 31st.

First day—leave Jasper Park Lodge at 9.30 a.m., motor to Medicine Lake, take motor boat across lake to Medicine Lake Chalet where a stop is made for lunch; with guide and saddle horses proceed to Maligne Lake, arriving at 5.00 p.m.

Second day—rest at Maligne Lake and take scenic motor boat trip to upper end of Maligne Lake (36 miles return).

Third day—leave Maligne Lake Chalet at 9.00 a.m. (with guide and saddle horse), cross Maligne River via the saddle horse bridge, follow the Shovel Pass trail over the northeast shoulder of Bald Mountain to the Evelyn Creek ford; thence up the long easy slope to the summit of Little Shovel Pass at timber line. Coming into view from the summit of Little Shovel Pass are four miles of alpland to be traversed before making the last climb to the summit of Big Shovel Pass (8,000 ft.). On the banks of a small mountain stream between the passes a stop is made for lunch. An easy descent across the shale slopes brings the rider to the overnight camp at Shovel Pass.

Fourth day—the route leads upward from Big Shovel Pass to the skyline of the Maligne Range, and, for more than two miles, the trail maintains an altitude of over eight thousand feet, which, due to the high altitude and peculiar location, in clear weather affords the rider a stupendous view of the mountains in all directions. Without doubt, it is the most comprehensive panorama that may be obtained from a saddle. From the skyline a short, though rapid, descent is made to the basin lying at the rear of Tekarra Peak where a stop is made for lunch before proceeding around the east and north base to the top of Signal Mountain, which overlooks Jasper Park Lodge and the Athabaska Valley at Jasper. The descent from Signal Mountain to the Lodge is made over the regular Signal Mountain trail. This is a four day inclusive trip. Cost, including boat trip on Maligne Lake, one person, $65.00; for two or more persons, $58.00 each.

Mount Robson is not only the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies (altitude 12,972) but also one of the most beautiful. It lies in Mount Robson Park, a natural playground some 640 miles in extent, adjoining Jasper National Park. The lines of the Canadian National Railways pass through Mount Robson Park, and Mount Robson itself, although 17 miles from the tracks, seems but half a dozen miles away. The mountain rises about 10,000 feet from the valley at its base and here is found a body of water known as Berg Lake into which huge chunks of ice from the Mount Robson glacier tumble. The ice at the point where the glacier meets the water is 75 feet thick.

Chalets of rustic design are now available on the border of Berg Lake, from where there are organized saddle trips to interesting points on this rugged and beautiful mountain range. There is also log cabin camp accommodation at Mount Robson station, where there are facilities for trail riding, climbing and hiking. The Mount Robson area is notable for its streams and literally dozens of magnificent waterfalls are to be seen, most of these falls having a drop of 2,000 feet.

Mount Robson is a climb to challenge the most intrepid mountaineer.

Detailed information in regard to Mount Robson district may be secured and reservations and all arrangements may be made at the Transportation Desk, Jasper Park Lodge.
