THE BANFF-JASPER AND COLUMBIA ICE-FIELD HIGHWAY

Scenic beyond adequate description, this spectacular highway ranks among the great "highroads" of the world. For its entire length of 185 miles it commands some of the most breath-taking and majestic scenery in the Canadian Rockies. A panorama of mountain ranges, unbroken but ever-changing, along both sides of this highway keeps the visitor enchanted and enthralled. Arrow signs along the road point to features of special interest, many of which are listed in this publication.

At places the Banff-Jasper Highway reaches a height of nearly 7,000 feet above sea-level. Many of the mountains visible in the region rise to more than 10,000 feet and are perpetually snow-capped. The road passes within a mile of the Athabasca Glacier--a tongue of the great Columbia Ice-field. A side road takes you to the foot of the glacier where a snowmobile tour on the glacier is available. At other points the motorist may stop and explore deep and awesome canyons, experience the thrill of watching mighty waterfalls pouring out of rocky chasms, or marvel at jewel-like mountain lakes that are ever in colour harmony with the mountain peaks and the skies above them.

Wildlife, including many large animals indigenous to the Rocky Mountains, may often be observed during a trip through this noted big game sanctuary. Bungalow cabins, chalets, lodges, hikers' hostels, and equipped camp-grounds provide convenient accommodation along the route. The return trip reveals new and fascinating scenery all the way. Opportunities for photography and nature study are endless, and the scenic wonders of this region are unforgettable.

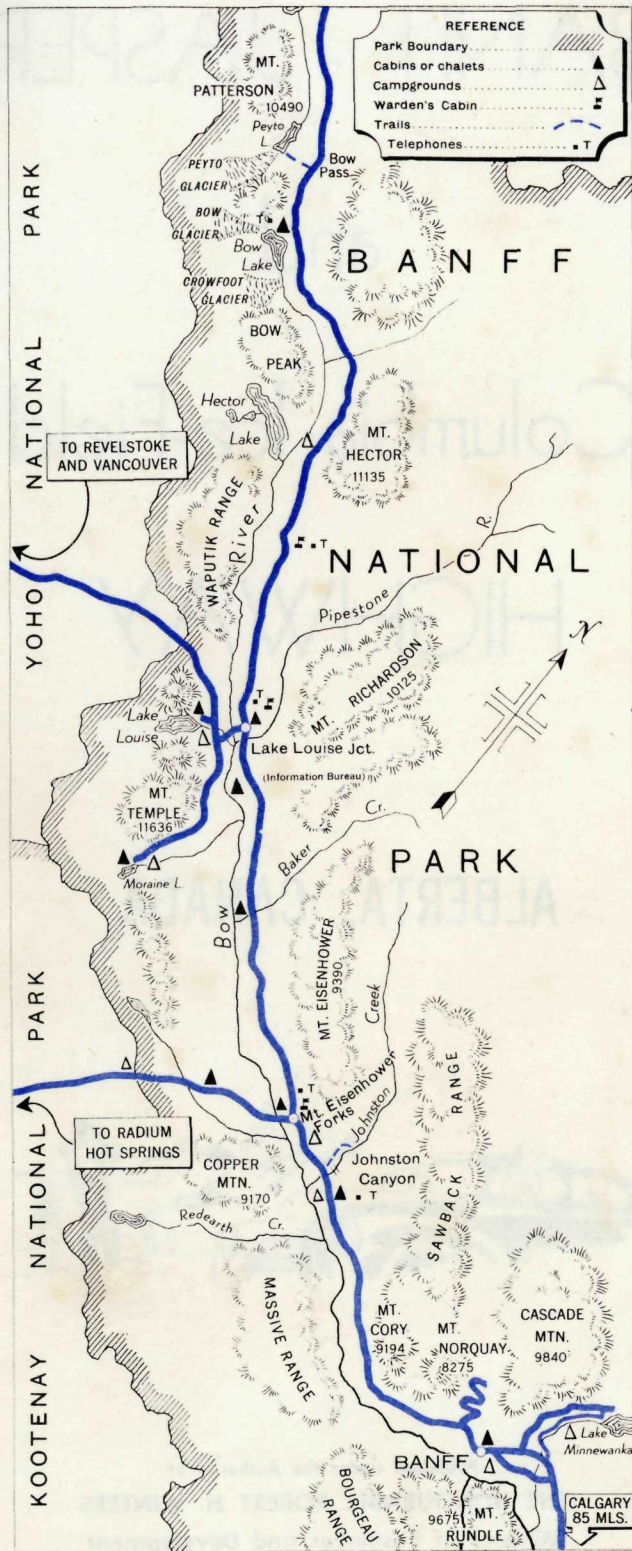

The Banff-Jasper Highway is maintained by the National Parks Branch of the Federal Department of Resources and Development. Information offices are located at Banff townsite, Lake Louise station, Columbia Ice-field, and Jasper townsite. For additional information write to:
