Behind the Scenes at KNHS

What is in an artifact? Why are they important? Artifacts encapsulate not just a particular moment in time, but they connect us to a whole universe, allowing us to preserve their stories along with the object. Due to the remoteness of Dawson City, the Klondike National Historic Sites have a large collection of artifacts, and in this program, you will have the opportunity to step behind the facades and see and touch the objects which inform the history.
