Welcome

The night of September 23, 2022 was an eventful one on Prince Edward Island. Hurricane Fiona left its mark, leaving many areas of Prince Edward Island National Park profoundly changed. Treasured by the Mi'kmaq people since time immemorial, this is a place in constant evolution and no stranger to the forces of nature. Composed of coastal regions varying from red sandstone cliffs to rolling dunes and pristine sandy beaches, Prince Edward Island National Park continues to be shaped and re-shaped by the wind and waves.

Returning visitors may find that the places they visit do not look the same as they remember. We know that some views look different and may evoke strong emotions. Change can be difficult when it impacts the places you love. But here's the good news: nature is amazing. The very forces that changed our landscape that night are the ones that formed them. They are also the ones that are re-shaping them once again.

While some may think them fragile, dunes are actually incredibly capable coastal warriors. They did their job perfectly during Fiona and protected the inland areas from the storm. Now, it is our turn, as beachgoers and nature lovers, to repay the favour. To regenerate and flourish once again, the dunes need space. Give back by staying back. Admire the "baby dunes" from a distance and leave that environment to all of the plants and creatures big and small that call it home. With your help, the island's dunes can continue their work as our beautiful coastal guardians.

As your hosts, we welcome you with our warmest "Island" greeting. The views may have changed but there is still endless beauty and wonder to discover, especially in the little things. Take photos, make memories, and use all of your senses to find your own unique connection with this special little corner of the world that continues to inspire and delight.

Have a wonderful visit with us.

Kwe' – Hello,

We wish you the warmest of greetings and welcome to Prince Edward Island (PEI) National Park. On behalf of the Mi'kmaq First Nations of Prince Edward Island, we are pleased you have chosen to visit and spend some time in this beautiful place.

The Mi'kmaq are the first peoples of this land and have lived in Epekwitk (the Mi'kmaw word for Prince Edward Island) for over 12,000 years. As part of our traditional territory, we have witnessed the lands and the waters along the north shore change time and time again with the guidance of mother nature.

Following Hurricane Fiona, we recognize that much has changed in the landscapes and sceneries people have come to know and love. Through formations and transformations, these areas have provided us with many of our necessities over the centuries and we continue to have a strong and special connection to them.

Based on our everlasting bonds and ways of knowing and being, there is only one thing which remains constant in the natural world, and that is change. It's important to remember that as we move through circular motions of many life cycles, everything in our vast and magnificent world is connected with purpose.

Our relationship with the natural beauty of the coastline, the rolling dunes and undulating waves remains timeless and enduring.

Archaeological sites found in PEI National Park, such as those at Greenwich and Robinsons Island, strengthen that enduring connection and provide much insight into the past.

Through the ongoing partnership with Parks Canada and L'nuey, we are pleased to continue to collaborate on the management of the park in various ways which include conservation projects, cultural programming and traditional activities.

While we have all experienced the ever-changing realities of environmental shifts, we hope that your time spent in PEI National Park amid its resilient beauty and strength, will rejuvenate you.

We invite you to explore all the PEI National Park has to offer and to learn more about Mi'kmaq heritage and the richness of our culture and traditions. Search for the splendour in new views, perspectives, and learning new truths.

We hope you have an enjoyable visit to this special part of Epekwitk.

Wela'lioq – Thank you all,

Chief Darlene Bernard
Lennox Island First Nation
Co-chair Epekwitk Assembly of Councils

Excuse the mess. Nature at work.

Climate change is the issue of our time. In every area of the world, there are indicators that tell us that things are changing in our environment. In Prince Edward Island, one such indicator is the frequency of what we call “severe weather events”. Storms causing erosion, fallen trees or other such things are not new. When you live on an island, wind and waves are everyday things. What is different is how often this area is seeing stronger, more powerful, more destructive weather events like Hurricane Fiona. While the results of Hurricane Fiona’s forces are dramatic, we must remember that they are natural ones.

That said, human beings can either help nature to recover or they can make the recovery process a whole lot harder. Since we know just how special the dunes, beaches, and forests are to residents and visitors, we know we can count on you to help!

How can you help?

The responses from visitors and residents have warmed our hearts – everyone wants to help! Nature knows how to heal and rebuild but you can still do your part.

Stay out of all dune areas, especially those spaces where sand may be beginning to accumulate or where the roots of the marram grass may be exposed.

Dunes – essentially hills of sand – are held together by marram grass roots. The dunes did hard work during Fiona, holding their ground to protect the island from erosion. In some areas, sand was washed or blown away. Left behind in some places were pokey yellow spikes – marram grass roots and the potential foundation for new dunes.

Give nature the space it needs to do its important healing work.

Sand can also accumulate beside natural objects like driftwood and begin the formation of a new “baby dune”. Isn’t that amazing? Since these areas can be easily disturbed, it’s super important to leave them be. This is why dune areas are CLOSED. Those who enter them anyway may face fines.

Stay far back from all dune zones.
Stay on the designated paths.
Use only authorized entry points.

Visiting the park

Like a quieter scene? Come earlier or later.

PEI National Park is busiest on hot summer days in July and August, between 11:00am and 3:00pm. For smaller crowds, visit us outside of those hours. In addition, don't forget us the other months of the year – the park is beautiful in every season!

Parking Pro-Tip

You can check parking conditions at PEI National Park on our website. Go to parks.canada.ca/peinow to get the scoop before you arrive.

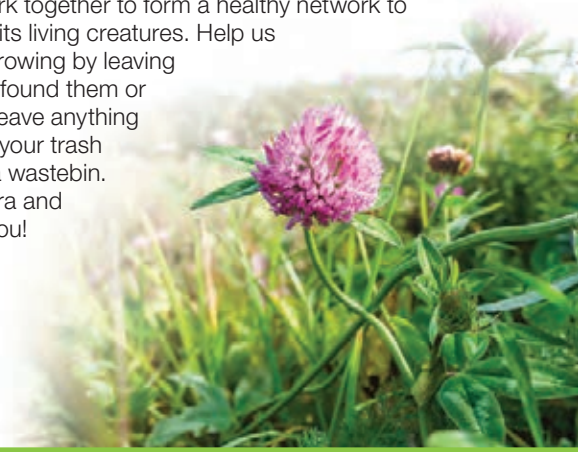

Leave your Drone at Home

PEI National Park is a “no fly” zone for drones. Special permits are required for all drone activity and these are not granted often. Regardless of the size of your drone, it can threaten wildlife and disturb visitors. Leave it home. Don't risk a fine.

Take nothing away. Leave nothing behind.

While we know how tempting it may be to take shells from the beach or flowers from the trail, please leave them be. All elements of an ecosystem – from the biggest to the smallest – work together to form a healthy network to support all of its living creatures. Help us keep things growing by leaving things as you found them or better. Don't leave anything behind. Pack your trash or stash it in a wastebin. The park's flora and fauna thank you!

Accessibility at PEI National Park

Beach Accessibility

Prince Edward Island National Park is pleased to offer enhanced accessibility features at Brackley Beach and Cavendish Beach. Both locations have the following:

Designated Parking	Beach Access Ramp
Accessible Washrooms/Showers	Mobility Mats

*Mobility Mats - A woven mat beginning at the base of the entrance ramp, stretching over the soft sand to give access to the hard-packed wet sand along the water's edge.

Specialized Chairs for Beaches and Trails

Beach Wheelchairs, Buoyant Beach Chairs, and Trail Riders allow visitors with reduced mobility even greater ease of access to locations that can be difficult to navigate. These special devices may be reserved ahead of time from 10am to 5pm by one person per day.

⊕ Beach Wheelchairs:

Chairs with wider, softer tires that navigate uneven surfaces.

⊕ Buoyant Beach Chairs:

Specially-designed chairs enabling the user to get right into the water.

⊕ Trail Riders:

Rugged, sturdy chairs built for the uneven terrain of trails and unpaved pathways.

Beach safety

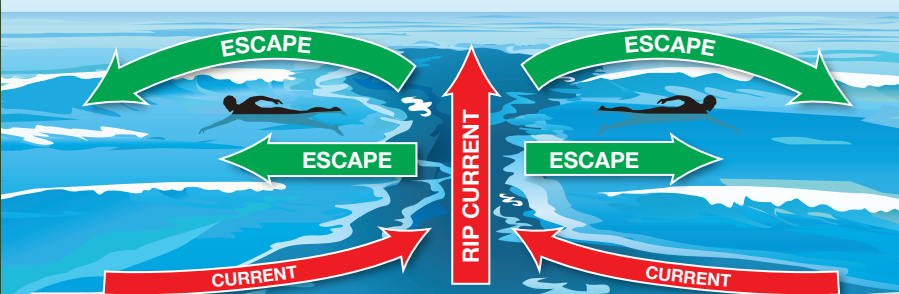

Oceans are beautiful but they can be dangerous. Stay alert and respect changing conditions. For more info about beach safety visit our parks.canada.ca/pei-beaches.

Rip Currents – Rip currents are powerful, fast-moving currents that can form quickly and pull you away from shore. Contrary to what you may assume, rip currents have calmer, darker waters with fewer waves.

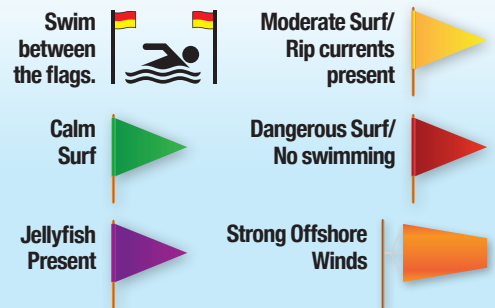

Caught in a rip?

- Stay calm. Attract attention.
- Conserve energy. Tread water or float - waves can assist you back to shore.
- Swim parallel to the shore to get out of the current. Do not swim against it.

Beach Flag Warnings

Flags are flown during supervised hours only. The absence of flags does not assure safe waters. Swim at your own risk.

Important Safety Tips

- Never swim alone.
- Keep children under supervision at all times.
- Opt for a supervised beach.
- Surfguards present during daytime hours.
- Observe surf conditions. Follow surfguard advice.
- If surf is present, be aware of the possibility of rip currents.
- NO INFLATABLES. EVER.

Be trail smart!

While PEI National Park can be explored in a number of ways, there's something very special about spending time on our trails.

With more than 50km of trails through wooded areas, past wetlands, and along the coastline, there are lots of paths from which to choose. Since Prince Edward Island is relatively flat, all trails are rated as "easy" or "moderate".

- 1. Choose trails that match your fitness level.
- 2. Share the trail! Trails are used by both pedestrians and cyclists. Cyclists, please yield to those on foot.
- 3. Wear your helmet! Helmets are mandatory on Prince Edward Island for ALL ages when cycling or using a scooter.
- 4. Bring water in a refillable container. Water is tested regularly so, unless indicated, drinking water is safe. Feel free to refresh your refillable water bottle at any bottle-filling station or tap.
- 5. Be sun safe! Cover up or wear SPF. Remember: you can still get burned when it's overcast.
- 6. Bring insect repellent. Protect yourself against mosquitos and ticks.
- 7. Locate washrooms before leaving. Don't be caught unaware!
- 8. Stay on designated trails. Unauthorized paths skirt cliff edges that can be unstable and draw visitors to unsafe areas.
- 9. Be aware of poison ivy.
- 10. If you're a birder, bring binoculars. Share your sightings on iNaturalist. (available on the App Store & Google Play)
- 11. Bring your camera. The park is very photogenic. Don't forget to tag us on social media! #PEINationalPark

Pets in the park

PEI National Park is an attractive place for visitors but it's also home to lots of wildlife! Sharing the beaches, trails, and other areas can be a challenge but ensuring visitor safety and protecting precious habitats are priorities for Parks Canada.

Between April 1 and October 15 annually, there is a domestic animal ban applied to all beaches in PEI National Park. No dogs, cats, or horses are permitted. This enables shorebirds to forage and fledge their young and provides a safe and enjoyable experience for all visitors.

Leashed pets are welcome on park trails, at Cavendish Grove, and at our campgrounds. Please be sure to bring along adequate supplies for your pet such as waste removal bags and fresh water.

Remember: Pets are not permitted in buildings. Do not leave pets in parked cars for any length of time. Temperatures can rise rapidly and we want the best for all of our visitors – even the furry, four-legged ones. Should you see a dog in a car who may be in distress, alert a Team Member or call the Parks Canada Dispatch line at 1-877-852-3100.

Stay with us!

PEI National Park has two beautiful, full-service campgrounds – Cavendish Campground (Cavendish-North Rustico Region) and Stanhope Campground (Brackley-Dalvay Region). Each one offers a variety of options for all kinds of campers – from first-timers to pros.

Equipped Camping

Available from June to September at Stanhope Campground, this package has all the essentials so that you can pack light and still have all the tools you need for an epic camping adventure.

RVs are welcome!

oTENTiks are a Parks Canada exclusive.

Your Site, Your Way

Options include unserviced, 2-way (water and electricity) and 3-way (water, electricity & sewer hook-up) sites at both campgrounds. Each campground also has sites of different sizes to accommodate everything from tents to larger RVs (up to 50' in length).

Roofed Accommodations

If you like, you can choose a roofed accommodation for your camping vacation. OTENTik is a cabin-like building with a tent-shaped roof for up to 6 people. There are also small cabins called Bunkies that sleep 2-4 people.

Reservations can be made online at reservation.pc.gc.ca or by phone at 1-877-RESERVE (1-877-737-3783).

Bunkies are the newest option.

For more information, visit the Camping section of our website parks.canada.ca/pei-camping.

Discover our wild side

We hope you have the chance to observe lots of wildlife during your visit. It's wonderful to see wildlife in their natural habitats, but there are some important things to keep in mind for your safety and the safety of the animals and birds in our park.

1. Keep dogs and other pets on leashes.

Loose pets disturb wildlife and can attract unwanted attention by coyotes.

2. If you're camping or picnicking in the park, dispose of any food waste promptly & appropriately.

Don't leave food scraps behind. Store all food in a hard-sided, secure compartment when not being used.

3. Do NOT feed any of the animals or birds.

Feeding wildlife is illegal and fines for doing so are significant. Foxes, in particular, have become accustomed to handouts and this poses huge problems for their health and well-being. Be kind by NOT sharing.

4. Be aware of coyotes.

Coyotes are more recent newcomers to PEI but sightings are becoming more common province-wide. If you see one, stay calm. Do not approach the animal and give it a wide berth or go back the way you came. If one should approach you, don't run. Pick up any small children, stand your ground and act big, making lots of noise. If you'd like more information about coyotes, visit our website or ask at one of our campgrounds or kiosks. Note: If you are approached by a coyote while in PEI National Park, please let staff know or report it to our Parks Canada Dispatch line at 1-877-852-3100.

Keep the "wild" in "wildlife" – don't approach or feed the park's animals.

See something? Report it to Parks Canada Dispatch at 1-877-852-3100. If you see an animal that may be in distress or something else of concern, please DO NOT intervene - even the most well-meaning actions can be harmful. Allow trained professionals to handle the job.

Species at risk

Our passionate employees work hard to protect and monitor the species at risk that depend on healthy ecosystems in PEI National Park. These species range from endangered birds to threatened trees and even bumble bees. To help us with this important job, respect closed area signs and keep your distance.

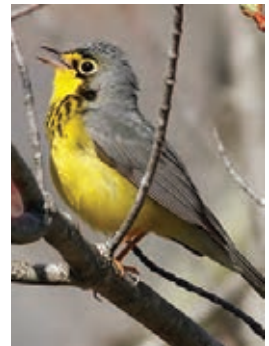

Become a "citizen scientist"

Here are a few of PEI National Park's "Most Wanted" species-at-risk. There are others listed on our website. If you see one, let us know. We invite you to post your observations to iNaturalist.ca or text us for free on our special "Species At Risk Sightings Line" at 902-200-1323.

Green Gables Heritage Place

8619 Route 6, Cavendish

Anne's Room

Take a walk through the setting of Canada's bestselling novel of all time, Anne of Green Gables!

Written by Island author L.M. Montgomery, Anne of Green Gables is the fictional story of Anne Shirley – a spunky, redheaded orphan who comes to live with an elderly brother and sister at their family home called “Green Gables”.

Visitors today will find that the house and grounds at Green Gables Heritage Place have been lovingly restored and decorated in exquisite detail to match the world Montgomery described in her novel. Exhibits in the Visitor Centre explore Montgomery's life and career and celebrate the impact of her writing globally. Outdoors, visitors are treated to enchanting gardens and invited to take a walk along the storied path, Lovers' Lane, (part of Balsam Hollow Trail) or to venture down the Haunted Wood path. In summer months, family programming, guided tours, and after-hours programs are available.

The Site of L.M. Montgomery's Cavendish Home

To learn more about Montgomery, visit “The Site of L.M. Montgomery's Cavendish Home,” part of L.M. Montgomery's Cavendish National Historic Site and operated privately by the Macneill family. (Separate admission or combo pass required.) For more information about this special place, visit Immontgomerycavendishhome.com or ask some of our helpful staff.

Want to visit both sites?

A “combo” pass is available for purchase at Green Gables Heritage Place and at the Site of L.M. Montgomery's Cavendish Home.

Visit Montgomery Park

Created to commemorate L.M. Montgomery and to celebrate the Founding Families of Cavendish and the Avonlea Women's Institute, Montgomery Park is home to a beautiful bronze statue of the author called “A Glimpse of Beauty”. Located at 7512 Route 13, Cavendish.

Skmaqn—Port-la-Joye—Fort Amherst National Historic Site

One of the best hidden gems on Prince Edward Island, Skmaqn—Port-la-Joye—Fort Amherst National Historic Site is located across the harbour from Charlottetown on the Island's south shore. This is a place steeped in history with a strong spiritual connection for the Mi'kmaq, Prince Edward Island's Indigenous people.

It is the setting of a lasting friendship between the Mi'kmaq and the French, and also of the tragic realities of the Acadian deportation following the arrival of the British.

Visitors love Skmaqn—Port-la-Joye—Fort Amherst for its peaceful atmosphere, the stunning harbour views, and the more than 6 km of trails just ripe for exploration. Pack a lunch and your favourite walking shoes and spend a day on the paths to the past.

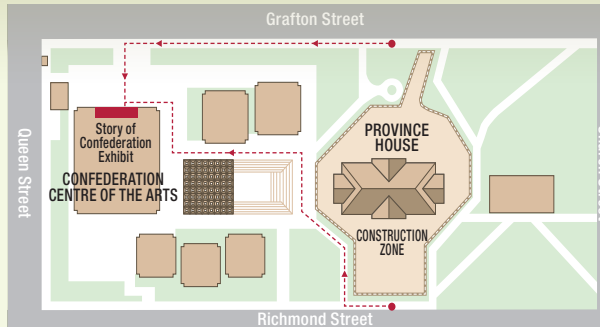

For more information about the site and available programming, visit parks.canada.ca/skmaqn.

Province House National Historic Site

Take a walk around Charlottetown and you can't miss it – Province House is under construction. As the home of the Prince Edward Island Legislature and a place of national historic significance, Province House National Historic Site is a building that holds many stories. The site was designated as a national historic site for its role in the Charlottetown Conference of 1864, as well as for its neo-classical architectural style and representation of the judicial institution of Prince Edward Island.

While these topics will remain the cornerstones of the new exhibits currently being developed, the stories chosen and how they are told will be broadened to include many narratives, perspectives, and voices which have not previously been heard. During the final phase of this important conservation work and exhibit redevelopment, visitors can explore "The Story of Confederation" at the Confederation Centre of the Arts in Charlottetown which includes an impressive replica of the Confederation Chamber. Come learn about some of the history of this treasured place.
